1) Reading Assignment:

Death of a Salesman by Arthur Miller

- Full PDF available here:
<http://www.wcusd15.org/kershaw/ENG%20302/DS%20Death%20of%20a%20Salesman%20Complete.pdf>
- Ever since it was first performed in 1949 this play has been recognized as a milestone of the American theater. In the person of Willy Loman, the aging, failing salesman who makes his living riding on a smile and a shoeshine, Arthur Miller redefined the tragic hero as a man whose dreams are at once insupportably vast and dangerously insubstantial. He has given us a figure whose name has become a symbol for a kind of majestic grandiosity—and a play that compresses epic extremes of humor and anguish, promise and loss, between the four walls of an American living room.

2) Annotation Assignment:

Annotation Scoring Guide

Annotation is an essential part of reading. As you read, please be sure to annotate for basic elements of story: characters, setting, conflict & theme. In addition, please annotate the text noting literary devices, new and challenging vocabulary, connections to your own life and the real world or other texts, as well as keeping brief summaries of the text so that you can easily reference major events and turning points throughout the story. If you purchase a copy of the book you can make notes on the page or create a post-it note system. If you check out the book from the library make sure you keep your notes, with page numbers and direct quotes that you can turn in on the first day of school and utilize on in-class assignments during the first week of school.

Superior	Adequate/Meets Standards	Needs Improvement
Comments show one understands/comprehends the important things in the text, including plot, characters, setting, conflicts, theme, etc.	Shows understanding of plot/facts-lacks details	Comments reveal no understanding of what is happening in the book
Notes and annotations demonstrate deep thinking about the text through questions and responses to the text	Has a few “deep thinking” questions and comments, is reflective, but not in-depth	Surface level comments only
Connects text to feelings and experiences, other texts, film, music, historical or current news events	Some connections of text to life experience, but little connection to other texts and ideas	Few connections to the text

Comments on literary devices or how the author does something; names the devices and/or describes impact of devices on reader	Recognizes literary devices but doesn't name them or talk about impact of devices	No comments on literary devices or author's craft
Vocabulary: Figures out key words/determine meaning of unknown words	Notes new words, doesn't define them or aim to determine meaning	Little attention to new words
Summaries: 2-3 word summaries makes it easy to find important events, characters or turning points	Occasional summaries	No marking of key events, characters or other important elements

Additionally as you are reading Death of a Salesman, complete the following handouts to support your understanding of the play and help you to prepare for in-class work the first week of school.

AP Language & Composition Students

1) Additional Reading Assignment:

Outliers by Malcolm Gladwell

Get a copy of Outliers by Malcolm Gladwell from your local library or local bookstore. It can be purchased on www.amazon.com for $7.28 (paperback)

You will need to read and annotate the book over summer break. Use sticky notes to mark pages and hand-write your annotations on the sticky notes. Think of your annotations as a conversation between yourself and the text. Read actively with a pen in hand. The more you annotate, the more success you will have in classroom activities at the beginning of the school year.

In addition to annotations, answer the Outliers Reading Guide questions as you read. Fully address each question, providing textual evidence (quotes, summaries, and paraphrases of the chapter). Your reading guide will be especially helpful during discussions or when you are locating evidence in the book to cite.

When the school year begins, we will complete the following activities surrounding Outliers:

Socratic Seminars and small group discussions

Multiple-choice reading comprehension and analysis questions

A research essay on a topic in Gladwell's book

Literary and rhetorical terms and vocabulary quizzes

The book and the summer assignment are an essential component of the first few weeks of school, so it is imperative that you show up on the first day prepared with the book read and annotated and the reading guide completed. Completing the summer assignment is a prerequisite to AP Language and Composition.

Outliers* Reading Guide Questions (You may type or handwrite your responses)

INTRO “The Roseto Mystery”

What is the definition of an “outlier?”

What makes the town of Roseto, PA an outlier and why does Gladwell use Roseto as his introductory “hook” into the book?

CHAPTER 1 “The Matthew Effect”

What are the reasons that professional hockey players typically have birthdates between the months of January to March? Explain the logical cause and effect relationship between this birthday and a successful hockey career, listing 3+ reasons.

Chapter 1 is titled “The Matthew Effect.” An allusion is when a writer makes a reference to another writer or text/book. Gladwell is alluding to a particular quotation from the gospel of Matthew. Why does he give his chapter this title – and how does the concepts in Outliers reflect or relate to the concepts in the book of Matthew?

What are the consequences of “prematurely writing people off as failures?”

CHAPTER 2 “The 10,000 Hour Rule”

Consider the following: “Practice isn’t the thing you do once you’re good. It’s the thing you do that makes you good.” Explain how this philosophy was at work for Bill Joy, The Beatles, and Bill Gates (47-50; 52-56)

According to Gladwell, out of the 75 richest people in human history, 14 are Americans born in the mid 1800s. Why is 1835 was a magical birth year?

CHAPTER 3 “The Trouble with Geniuses, Part I”

How does the word “successful” differ from the word “qualified?” Look these words up in Merriam Webster’s dictionary and explain the variances in meaning between the two terms.

Is it right to level the playing field for the under-privileged by using “affirmative action?” Research affirmative action, and also observe how Gladwell explains affirmative action before answering this question.

Explain “the threshold effect” (86).

CHAPTER 4 “The Trouble with Geniuses, Part II”

What kind of intelligence does Chris Langan lack? (101)

What is the difference between “Concerted Cultivation” (102-108) vs. “Accomplishment of Natural Growth” (103-105 & 113-115)?

CHAPTER 5 “The Three Lessons of Joe Flom”

Why did Jewish immigrants fare better financially in the New World than the Irish and Italian immigrants (142, 144)?

How did Joe Flom’s law firm become successful (124-128)?

Why did Mort Janklow succeed, whereas his father Maurice Janklow did not (130-133)?

CHAPTER 6 “Harlan, Kentucky”

Explain the meaning of this quote by explaining its context within the chapter and to the “culture of honor” that exists in the Appalachian Mountains: “He wouldn’t have been much of a man if he hadn’t shot them fellows” (169).

What are the “cultural legacies” as described in this chapter? Why are they significant to understand when dealing with people?

CHAPTER 7 “The Ethnic Theory of Plane Crashes”

Explain the concepts of low PDI and high PDI and how “mitigated speech” causes into airline crashes! Describe an example of a real-life miscommunication using your own experience or observations.

Describe the significance of “the willingness to change” as it relates to Korean Air.

CHAPTER 8 “Rice Paddies and Math Tests”

After reading this section of the book, have your opinions changed about math classes and math ability? Explain why or why not.

CHAPTER 9 “Marita’s Bargain”

Why is KIPP Academy different from many other schools, how does it overcome “the achievement gap” and why are its students so successful?

How does a rice paddy relate to the educational system in China? By contrast, how does the farming practices in America inform the American academic calendar?

Gladwell states “success follows a predictable course.” How does this quote apply to Marita? How does this apply to you?

EPILOGUE “A Jamaican Story”

What does Gladwell mean when he states, “The outlier in the end is not an outlier at all.”

Explain what Gladwell means when he states, “That is the story of my mother’s path to success – and it isn’t true.”
